Forward contract prices opened lower this morning. US cash markets have dropped from the highs seen earlier this week as packers came to the realization that live hog supply is tighter than anticipated and higher bids will do little to secure a larger weekly slaughter. Daily slaughter levels are shrinking relative to last year's with yesterday estimated at less than 400,000 hogs. Lean Hog futures were pummeled by the same factor affecting all commodity and stock markets, the Greek debt crisis that threatens to trigger similar situations in at least 3 other European countries. The Canadian Dollar has fallen sharply in response to the same event, as global investors flock to the "safe haven" of the US Dollar. The impact on forward contract prices from the sharply lower Lean Hog and Canadian Dollar futures is a drop of about $2.00/ckg.

Canadian delivered soymeal prices opened lower this morning. The soybean complex is trading lower this morning as a stronger U.S. Dollar attracted traders to reduce their risk exposure in response to European financial uncertainty. As well, ideal growing conditions and rapid seeding provided further bearish influences.

Canadian delivered corn prices opened higher this morning. Corn markets continue to climb this morning after session lows earlier in the week, despite the excellent start to U.S. planting. Rumors that China has bought more U.S. corn may be contributing to this bullish phenomenon.
